

UK News

Indian Futures at Hangleton Library

Indian Futures is taking part in the Hangleton&Knoll Ageing Well Festival. This magical local festival will be on from 20th September to 4th October.

Indian Futures continues to support local artists @ofbooksandbees and @peacooperhats who are also part of the festival and will be running workshops between now and April 2022.

A Slice of Alanna's Sky...

'Peachy patches appear in the sky.
They float uncertainly.
And the blue
is grey whipped...'

(Link to full performance video below this eBulletin)

Alanna enchanting us with her poetry...
@Phoenix Centre Café on 25th September
(Indian Futures fundraiser)

Futuraula Speaks

Angie has been an incredible force within the Futuraula Committee for the last 2 years

Introducing you to... Angie, a very proactive Futuraula member!

From Barcelona: 'I have been collaborating with Futuraula for 2 years and it has been a wonderful experience. Not only it has given me the opportunity to be creative, meet amazing people, learn about other cultures and improve my English communication skills, but also and more importantly, help young women in India to access education.'

I can't wait to start this new year and set new goals to fundraise for Indian Futures' projects.'

News from India

Priyadharshini (left) and Aarthi (right) are the first sponsored students to complete their studies!

Meet our students

Indian Futures are proud to introduce you to Priyadharshini and Aarthi, two students from Vedanthangal who have just finished their Nursing Diplomas, thanks to Indian Futures' Student Sponsorship Programme.

We're about to launch this year's programme. To find out more, scan the QR code below...

